

WORKING WITH

Transformative Culture Project

Transformative Culture Project is a Boston local non-profit organization which harnesses the economic power of creative arts for youth and community development.

2017 January, through Northeastern University's Experiential Learning Project, I've met TCP and started helping them with building up a new brand asset.

I've designed posters, flyers, business cards, magazine ads, promotion pages using Photoshop for TCP so far.

#AccelerateBOS

A business accelerator for the creative class of Boston that provides a curriculum based on a traditional MBA syllabus, has an advisory board made from Boston's most innovative entrepreneurs, and recruits young businesses to apply to the program. This six month program ends in a business plan competition. Through this we also provide artists with professional development workshops, shared work space, and fiscal sponsorship and fundraising support.

Beyond Creative

A full service, award-winning creative media agency with trained youth producers who receive a paycheck for their work, intensive training and support with a focus on resilience, social emotional learning, and 21st century skills, mentorship and apprenticeships, and a safe and supportive learning environment.

Creative Classrooms

A series of workshops and courses in media and cultural arts in and out of school, with a focus on re-engaging students in becoming lifelong learners and fulfilling their academic goals.

#AssembleBOS

A series of programs that embodies the values of catalyzing real conversation with diverse groups through culture. We help connect close to 30,000 people every year through in person events. Our signature event is Juneteenth at the MFA, attracting close to 6,000 people this annual event highlights artists of color from Boston.

WHAT WE DO?

Transformative Culture Project harnesses the economic power of creative arts for youth and community development. We imagine a world in which artists and cultural creatives are celebrated and compensated for their role in imagining the future and connecting people to one another. Visit <https://www.tcpproject.org/> for more information.

Reggie Williams
Development Director

Xinyi is an accomplished graphic designer, and I am impressed with the skills she has been able to apply her self-taught skills and formal education to forge a career in this industry. While completing her Master of Professional Studies in Digital Media at Northeastern, Xinyi helped our team work through a redesign our brand assets. Undertaking this project was a matter of not only updating the language and graphic elements, but also completing a total overhaul of our brand collateral.

Xinyi has grown tremendously over the past year working with our organization, and consistently worked to bring fresh, innovative solutions to the challenges we faced. She worked to design new copy of program descriptions, update cover art for our YouTube channel to highlight the work of our creative agency.
